

In addition to the capabilities of Mathematics teachers, the emerging technology tools in classroom environment constitute the significant factors that affect student learning of mathematics skills. Instructors always strive to diversify learning sources in classrooms.
Increasing engagement can no longer rely on teachers' idiosyncratic teaching styles.

The italicized sentence has been copied word-for-word directly from the source material. The student has merged this sentence into his own words without giving credit to the source